[Bangor]— The Woof Meow Show, a radio program about pets produced in Bangor, Maine, will be moving to The Pulse AM620, WZON, and WKIT HD3 on Saturday, February 6th at 12 PM. Hosted by Don Hanson and Kate Dutra of the Green Acres Kennel Shop, The Woof Meow Show focuses on educating people about dogs, cats, their behavior, health care, nutritional needs and their relationship with their people. The Woof Meow Show first aired on WVOM the Voice of Maine in December of 2004. Don Hanson, the show's producer and co-host states; "Kate and I are very grateful to WVOM for asking us to start the show back in 2004 and being our home for over eleven years; however, our new home at Zone Radio and The Pulse AM620 will be giving us an opportunity to expand the show even further. We will be moving from a 30-minute show to 60 minutes and will be moving to a more accessible time slot; 12 noon every Saturday. Additionally, listeners will have the option of listening to The Woof Meow Show via The Pulse AM620's online stream at www.wzonthepulse.com on their computer or on their smartphone or tablet with the free WZON 620 AM app. Podcasts of the show will continue to be available after the show airs at www.woofmeowshow.com and the Apple iTunes store." Hanson indicated that the shows content will continue to focus on a wide range of topics, including; tips on adopting a pet, cat and dog behavior, training, pet food and nutrition, healthcare for pets, careers with animals, kids and pets, product reviews, listener questions and more. Hanson stated: "We look forward to continuing to have both local veterinarians on the show as well as nationally recognized pet experts. We love receiving ideas for show topics and questions from our listeners either via the shows FaceBook page or via email at woofmeow@greenacreskennel.com."
